

Everyone dreads folding clothes; some choose to bite the bullet and force themselves to fold them. This choice, unfortunately, forces these individuals to waste crucial time that could be used on other activities. Others leave their clothes in baskets or just in a separate space. This provides the opportunity where unfolded clothes will save time for different activities, but will leave clutter within your storage space. Folding clothes is difficult, boring, and time-consuming.